

Your financial aid application was selected by the U.S. Department of Education to undergo a process called verification. You must provide evidence of your High School completion. Review this document and provide one of the acceptable documents listed below which supports your completion status. The document must be submitted to the Financial Aid Office to continue the review process and determine your eligibility for federal student aid.

2011 – 2013 High School Completion Status

Provide one of the following acceptable documents that indicate your high school completion status as of the date you will begin college in 2011-2013:

- f* A copy of your high school diploma.
- f* A copy of your final official high school transcript that shows the date when the diploma was awarded.
- f* A copy of your General Education Development (GED) certificate or GED transcript.
- f* An academic transcript that indicates you successfully completed at least a two-year program that is acceptable for full credit toward a bachelor's degree.
- f* If State law requires a homeschooled student to obtain a secondary school completion credential for homeschool (other than a high school diploma or transcript or the equivalent signed by your parent or guardian, this credential must document the successful completion of courses you completed and documents the successful completion of a homeschool setting.
 - f* If you completed high school in a foreign country and cannot obtain a diploma or transcript, a copy of your "secondary school leaving certificate" is acceptable.
 - f* A copy of a DD Form 214 Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty if it indicates that you are a high school graduate or equivalent.

If you are unable to obtain any of the items listed above, you must contact the Financial Aid Office.